

Bombay Cat Owner Manual: In-Depth Guide to Bombay Cats' Care, Personality, and Traits

The Bombay cat is a breed of domestic cat that is known for its sleek black coat and large, expressive green eyes. They are a relatively new breed, having been developed in the United States in the 1950s. Bombay cats are known for their affectionate and playful personalities, and they make excellent companions for families with children.

History of the Bombay Cat

The Bombay cat was created by Nikki Horner, a breeder from Louisville, Kentucky. Horner was inspired by the black leopard, and she wanted to create a cat that resembled this majestic animal. She crossed a black American Shorthair with a sable Burmese, and the result was the Bombay cat.
